

Introducing PlexusSM

Seriously Advanced Business CommunicationsSM

Plexus is Knology's most advanced suite of communication services for business, delivering boundless data capacity and feature-rich voice applications with unmatched flexibility.

Meeting today's technology demands for business.

Historically, high-performance data networks were only available as enterprise solutions. In order to stay competitive, small-to-medium sized businesses are looking for the same capabilities as the big guys, in a package that suits their individual needs. These businesses want a simple, reliable communications platform that offers high bandwidth and a secure connection that is affordable.

Most business technology decisions are driven by data needs. And with Knology, that connection is at the Plexus level. With Plexus, you may choose either a

1. Pure fiber connection for boundless data capacity or
2. Hybrid-fiber connection that delivers speeds faster than DSL at a lower cost.

From here, the desired voice application is added. Knology offers two sophisticated voice applications from which to choose – Matrix and iPlex.

Knology MatrixSM

Your One Connection to a Turn-Key Solution.

Matrix is a managed direct-to-the-desktop voice solution that requires no system capital investment. Knology ensures the network is up and running 24/7 and upgrades are handled transparently. You simply connect your office to Matrix and you're good to go. Managing calls is easy through a dynamic online portal that puts you in control.

iPlexSM

Boundless Capacity. Unlimited Flexibility.

For businesses who prefer total control over their voice communications, Knology offers iPlex – a fiber-based solution that unleashes the power of an IP-PBX system. iPlex is more of a self-service solution offering incredible flexibility. You can track call volumes, and add or subtract calling capacity with ease.

One connection, one number to call for service.

The Plexus suite of communication services is delivered through a single secure and reliable, high-quality connection from one company. We own the network so there's one number to call should you ever need assistance.

For seriously advanced communication services that deliver Speed, Security, Simplicity and Savings – Plexus is the answer.

Most business technology decisions are driven by data needs. And with Knology, that connection is at the Plexus level.

